Hitler at Russian Front--Won't Quit

LONDON, Jan. 29 (INS)—A neutral diplomat arriving in Stockholm from Berlin quoted Hitler as categorically refusing a German general staff recommendation that he sue for an armistice, the London Daily Mail said today. Officially informing Hitler it was "useless to continue," the general staff was reported no longer holding itself responsible for a situation beyond its control, the newspaper said. Hitler has ordered preparations for a retreat northward toward Dresden, the diplomat declared.

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Moscow radio said today that Adolf Hitler had gone to the east front on an "inspection tour to acquaint himself with the critical situation on the spot." The broadcast attributed its information to "leading political circles in Berlin."

Berlin Sees Gun Flashes

EASTERN FRONT—Russian forces were fighting within 109 miles of Berlin today in the Pniewy area, west of encircled Poznan. To the east, Torun has been encircled . . . and another Red drive is reported to have reached Schneidemuhl, in Germany's Brandenburg province. Pressure continued on East Prussia, where 200,000 Germans are trapped . . . and the Reds held vital industrial centers of southern Silesia.

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP) — The Russians have surrounded the Prussian rail center of Schneidemuhl, four miles inside the German border, a German spokesman announced today, and Swedish eyewitness reports said flashes from Marshal Stalin's guns already could be seen from Berlin in the night skies over the eastern battlefront.

German officials were moving their offices from the threatened capital, and 20 trains evacuated part of the populace, said a Swedish national just come from Berlin. Foreign diplomats were making preparations to leave, and foreign correspondents were ordered to depart, he said.

Encirclement of Schneidemuhl, a city of 41,000, cut the main Berlin-Danzig railway at a point 135 miles northeast of the capital, but directly east of Berlin. German reports placed the Russians much closer, about 95 miles.

Latest official Soviet announcements said the Russians in their beeline drive on Berlin were 109 miles to the east, but Moscow dispatches said it was believed Marshal Zhukov's tanks had spurted farther ahead and had crossed the frontier of Brandenburg, the province of Berlin, at several points.

While Zhukov's front, by official Moscow report, was spread on an 80-mile arc within 100 miles of Stettin on the Baltic and 77 miles from Frankfurt on the Oder, Russian forces in East Prussia virtually surrounded Konigsberg, regal capital of the Prussian military caste.

(The Konigsberg radio came on the air six hours late today the FCC reported. The German high command admitted Russian penetration of the Konigsberg defenses. "There is heavy fighting in progress on both sides of Konigsberg with enemy forces which had penetrated," the communique said.)

Russian siege artillery poured a steady stream of fire into that stronghold, into besieged Breslau, Silesian bastion on the Oder, and into Poznan and Torun in Poland where encircled Nazi suicide garrisons were believed on their last legs.

Liquidation of the final fourth of East Prussia still held by the Germans was proceeding in close-in fighting, while the Dabrowa coal fields and most of the industrial centers of Silesia had been over-run.

German broadcasts declared Zhukov's frontal drive on Berlin had been temporarily stopped in the last 24 hours but the German communique told of continued fighting along the Obra in the frontier area 95 miles from Berlin.

Berlin military spokesmen said the Russians were attacking along a line from Kreuz, 103 miles northeast of Berlin, to Zraszyn on the Obra southeast of Berlin and "we cannot yet speak of a coherent front in the east at all."

In Silesia, the enemy communique said, the Russians enlarged their bridgehead over the Oder at Steinau, 32 miles northwest of Breslau.

Transocean, Nazi news agency, reported the Russians assaulting Breslau from the rear. The agency said Marshal Konev's First Ukrainian Army, striking from Ohlau on the Oder's west bank 14 miles southwest of Breslau, "now stand at the gates of Breslau."

All streets into the city of 650,000 have been barricaded, a German front line report declared, and "tank traps multiply hourly."

The whole Upper Silesian battlefront was "engulfed in flames" as the Germans carried out a scorched earth policy, the account asserted. "Whole towns are being destroyed and burning towns and villages and hamlets look like torches."

An Eighth Soviet army joined the gigantic attack and seized the long-surrounded Baltic port of Memel yesterday in another day of great victories which brought gloomy predictions from the Nazi press.

YANKS SMASH AT GATEWAY TO MANILA

By Associated Press

Three converging American columns bore down on San Fernando, "Gateway to Manila," today, while Superforts struck again at battered Iwo island on the sea road to Tokyo and gave the enemy capital a sleepless week-end.

The Japanse-controlled Singapore radio said 145 carrier-borne fighters and bombers raided the Sumatra oil refineries around Palembang for 2½ hours at midday. It claimed 44 raiders—presumably British—were shot down.

Tokyo broadcasts said American bombers for the first time attacked Hachijo island, less than 200 miles south of the Nipponese capital, which was visited by a continual stream of solitary raiders. Single incendiary-dropping B-29's were reported over Tokyo nine times Saturday night, once Sunday night and again this morning.

Southern Sixth Army forces surged toward Manila and Bataan, and Yanks on the northeastern sector captured Rosario in the longest, hardest battle of the Luzon campaign. They pushed through decimated Japanese units to join other American columns in a three-way drive on the highway junction leading to Baguio, Philippines summer capital and supposed headquarters of the Japanese command.

In the south, advanced patrols of the 40th Division at Mexico were only 34 air miles from Manila and three from San Fernando. Other 40th patrols took Arayat while on a third lateral highway the main force of the 37th Division rolled through Angeles and its four airfields, virtually undefended.

The first Allied convoy in nearly three years is rolling along the last leg of the 900-mile Burma road ruote to carry new war supplies to China. Numbering more than 100 vehicles it crossed the Chinese border near Wantung yesterday after rumbling 470 miles across the mountains and through the jungles of northern Burma.

LUZON—Smashing ahead in their drive towards Manila, Yank 6th Army Forces have taken Angeles and reached Mexico and Arayat on the central Luzon plain, according to Gen. MacArthur's headquarters.

Allies Push On 2 Miles In Reich Border Snow

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, Jan. 29 (AP)—Veteran divisions of the First Army pushed their snowplow attack northeast of St. Vith to within a mile of Germany and the beginning of the formidable Siegfried line defenses today.

American and French troops advanced more than two miles to a point on the Colmar canal, barely more than a half mile from Colmar, historic capital of upper Alsace, 38 miles southwest of Strasbourg.

The Third Army reached the German-Luxembourg frontier on an eight-mile stretch of the Our river.

North of the First Army, the U. S. Ninth and British Second were close to the Roer and through the Siegfried Line in many places, potentially threatening the Ruhr and Rhineland and their great cities.

To the south, the Third Army was either near or across the border all the way to Saarbrucken.

Thus Gen. Eisenhower's forces were deployed along or beyond 200 miles of the Siegfried Line all the way from Holland to the south part of the Saarland. The slow reversal of the Ardennes bulge had squeezed perhaps 20 American divisions from the straightened salient, allowing them rest for the next battle.

Opposition to the pre-dawn onslaught, which caught the Nazis by surprise yesterday and gained two miles, was still "light to moderate," Gen. Eisenhower's communique said, with 16 villages taken.

The doughboys had to flounder forward almost Indian file through waist deep drifts and virtually shovel their way toward the German border. The advance could hardly be rapid.

The Seventh Army front in Alsace was quiet—snowbound.

The Third Army shoved the Germans back into Germany beyond the Our northeast of Wiltz. The enemy was back across the line from which he sprang on Dec. 16 in that sector.

The 94th Division captured Sinz, 3½ miles inside Germany. The Germans counter-attacked with four tanks and infantry in a futile effort to recapture the village.

The 17th Airborne Division in gains of a mile or more took Dorscheid and Roder. The Fifth Division cleared Putscheid, north of Diekirch.

Heavies Smash At Italian Front

ROME, Jan. 29 (AP)—Allied bombers smashed at enemy communications in northern Italy again yesterday as frigid weather continued to limit ground action along the entire Fifth and Eighth Army front, headquarters announced today.

A number of German raiding parties were reported along the Senio and Reno rivers in the Eighth Army sector.

Bogus Jap Flags Sold Yanks

WANTING, China, Jan. 29 (AP)—Chinese soldiers are capitalizing on the desire of American soldiers to obtain Jap battle flags.

They discovered that reasonable facsimiles could be manufactured from white nylon parachutes, used in dropping cargoes, with red balls cut from bunting and sewed on the white field.

Back at Myitkyina the amateur battle flag manufacturers discovered the Americans like to see the flags a little tattered and with Japanese characters showing on the white field. One buyer who went to the trouble of having some of the inscriptions translated found they were the names of food and other supplies, copied off packing cases.

EXCLUSIVE DUNCAN SCHOOL FOR BOYS AT LENOX

Lenox to Probe Closed School

The Village Inn, Lenox, today afforded refuge for students from the Duncan School for Boys, which health authorities closed Saturday night for alleged inadequacies in heat and food, while their parents, in a number of cities, were telephoning frantically to inquire for their welfare.

Headmaster William C. Duncan, who was in New York when the shut-down order was enforced at his exclusive fount of education, was expected to appear at Lenox Town Hall for questioning by the town fathers later in the day. He had been registered at the Hotel Shelton in New York for about a month, according to a clerk there.

One of the anxious parents was Mrs. James MacGregor of Braintree, whose son, James, Jr., 14, entered the school last year.

She said she heard yesterday afternoon that the school had been closed and so put in a telephone call for Headmaster Duncan. She related:

"They told me he was not there and I talked with John K. Wolcott, the assistant headmaster. He seemed indignant that I should call. He said, 'How did you learn about this?' I simply told him I understood the school had been closed and I was anxious about Jimmy. Mr. Wolcott told me Mr. Duncan was coming back last night.

"I asked about the health of the boys. Mr. Wolcott told me, 'Not one of them has even had a cold.'

"Still, I was dissatisfied. I called the Red Cross in Pittsfield and asked that someone get in touch with my son. They found him at the Village Inn, in Lenox. My husband and I talked with him by phone and he said he was all right. He said, 'The fires went out, but we are having a swell time.'

"We are going to tell him today that he must come home."

Mrs. MacGregor said Jimmy had entered the school as the result of a visit to their home by Headmaster Duncan, who explained, she said, that he had heard the boy was gifted musically and inasmuch as music was a major interest of the school he would like to have Jimmy as a student.

The tuition, Mrs. MacGregor said, was $1400 a year.

She said, "Mr. Duncan told me, 'I have instructed Rockefellers.' The school catalogue carried a list of names under the heading, 'Friends of the School.' It included Dr. Claude M. Fuess, headmaster of Phillips Academy, Andover; Dr. J. Vaughan Merrick, headmaster of St. George's School, in Middletown, R. I. and Dr. George C. St. John, headmaster of Choate School in Wallingford, Ct. So we sent Jimmy.'

The Braintree mother said Jim.

FD Envoy Hopkins Goes to See Pope

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP)—Harry L. Hopkins has visited London and Paris, meeting Prime Minister Churchill and Gen. DeGaulle, and has gone on to Rome to see Pope Pius XII in an "information tour" for the President before the big-three-parley.

An American-imposed censorship had banned any mention of Hopkins' movements until today.

Hopkins' tour of European capitals underscored the role that discussions of the postwar political shape of Europe may play in the impending conference of Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin. Hopkins spent a week in London, and reached Paris last Friday.

Pointing to the Russian drive toward Berlin and the possibility that Gen. Eisenhower may be preparing to launch a big offensive from the west, some diplomatic sources expressed the view that Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin would consider the feasibility of a "surrender now" declaration to the Germans.

A British foreign office commentator disclosed that its propaganda to Europe was plugging Churchill's Jan. 18 speech in commons in which he told the Germans "if you surrender now nothing you will have to endure after the war will be comparable to what you otherwise are going to suffer in 1945."

The ban on reporting Hopkins' presence in London, imposed by the American embassy, was lifted shortly after noon. Hopkins himself made no great secret of his arrival here, even holding an off-the-record press conference early last week.

It was not until the Paris radio announced that Hopkins was reported conferring with Gen. de Gaulle that this part of the preparations for the Big Three meeting could be disclosed.

Hopkins and U. S. Ambassador John G. Winant were closeted for long hours with Churchill and

HARRY HOPKINS

Foreign Secretary Eden during the week in a concentrated effort to reach a solid Anglo-American front before sitting down with Stalin.

Well founded speculation was that Hopkins will go to Rome and even to Moscow before Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin meet.

This visit, if undertaken, might delay the big three meeting until around Feb. 15, although there was no evidence that the sessions would not convene earlier.

Hopkins is generally expected to attend the big meeting as a close advisor of Mr. Roosevelt.

Hopkins' recent presence in London posed a difficult problem for London correspondents, who wrote numerous stories last week about American advisors being in conference. They could not name Hopkins.

A brief official announcement issued today said Hopkins' discussions had "covered a wide area" and that in addition to meeting with Churchill, Foreign Secretary Eden and other ministers he had seen the King.

Peace Riots Rock Reich; Next 8 Days 'Decisive'

By International News Service

Panic-stricken refugees fleeing the path of avenging Russian armies were reported streaming in and out of rubble-strewn Berlin today as the authoritative Cologne newspaper Koelnischer Zeitung asked:

"O God, will these five years of war filled with distress, death, bloodshed and wrecked property have been suffered and battled through in vain?

"The next eight days will be decisive—a question of life or death. No quarter will be shown. These days will settle our fate . . . " and will show "if all those hundreds of thousands killed in foreign countries have fallen in vain or if our innumerable sufferings will be rewarded, those sufferings which have brought us to the limit of our strength and endurance."

French newspapers reported placards in Berlin asking German mothers to demand peace for their children's sake, as travelers from Berlin to Sweden said government archives were being removed from the capital, where preparations were under way to blow up public buildings.

The Paris radio, quoting Stockholm reports, said "serious riots have broken out in the eastern and southern districts of Berlin and police and SS troops were called out to quell rising waves of unrest in the Reich capital."

The London Daily Express quoted a Stockholm report that "Germany may crack tomorrow, and under no circumstances can the German front hold out more than 10 weeks."

Believing Berlin already doomed, tens of thousands are leaving the capital, while other thousands are trekking in from the east through biting snowstorms to sleep in unheated bomb-wrecked buildings, the Daily Express said.

Endless streams of baby carriages and wheelbarrows of household goods line the streets for miles east and west of Berlin, the Express report declared. Hundreds, including children, are dropping along the highways, while troops have been called to the capital to clear the railroad stations and maintain order.

With funeral equipment requisitioned by the army, the people can bury their dead only after first making the coffin and digging a grave in the frozen ground.

The Mysterious "8 Days." See Dewitt Mackenzie Article on Page 28

Mounting tension in the Reich capital, where large numbers of Volkssturm troops are reported deserting and where little medical treatment is available for refugees, has led to demonstrations against the war and against the authorities.

The Ankara radio reported 100 casualties resulted from a recent armed clash in the city.

The Brussels radio reported riots throughout the Reich, with food riots in Halle and Frankfurt suppressed by police and SS troops. In Leipzig thousands of women stormed the Volkssturm barracks to protest an order sending home guard troops to the front.

Many women were killed when SS troops fired into the crowd, the broadcast said.

Clashes reportedly occurred in Breslau when the Volkssturm interceded with the SS guard on behalf of refugees.

Dr. Rudolf Sammler, Nazi home service radio commentator said "rows" had occurred in the civilian flight from the east and there was considerable confusion within Germany itself.

Semmler said the migration was one of the greatest in history and commented "it was unavoidable disorganization ensued owing to incompetence."

The fear and suffering of the refugees was described by Semmler, who said "never before has such a peoples migration taken place under such difficult circumstances. The suddenness of events prevented many women from taking anything with them. The roads were not safe in the icy cold. Transport was utterly primitive."

Vinson Looms As Loan Boss

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Capitol heard talk today that Stabilization Director Fred Vinson may be President Roosevelt's choice for federal loan chief if the Senate knocks Henry Wallace out of the job.

The Wallace nomination for Secretary of Commerce is expected to be reported officially to the Senate this week, along with a bill to take the government's biggest lending agencies from the department and set them up under a federal loan administrator.

As the situation stands, Wallace apparently can have confirmation for the Cabinet post—if he wants to wait long enough to let the divorcement bill become law and his opponents do not force a test vote on the nomination in the meantime. This would require President Roosevelt's cooperation in singing the measure or letting it become law.

But confirmation for the combined commerce and lending posts seemed definitely headed for defeat. An Administration survey indicated a minimum of 45 adverse votes, likely to be a majority because of absences.

In either event, interested legislators heard Vinson might get the call to handle the purse strings the President took out of Jones' hands. Whether he might also be nominated for Secretary of Commerce if Wallace is turned down, remained a matter of conjecture.

Chairman Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan, called the Republican conference into session today to consider the whole Wallace matter.

Opponents of the former Vice-President were pulling strings in an effort to get the nomination to a vote in the Senate before a bill proposed by Sen. George (D.) of Georgia, can become law.

The George bill, establishing the lending agencies permanently under a federal loan administrator, awaits a formal report from the Commerce Committee before it can go on the Senate calendar.

Chairman Bailey (D.) of North Carolina arranged to submit a report on the nomination today to the 14 members who voted against Wallace. He said it was taking more time to get the George bill report in shape.

Bailey declined to say whether he would report the nomination first, thus bringing it officially before the Senate while the bill was held back.

Three youths, all about 25 years of age, were sought today for the robbery of Alec Tocman, 39, a Chelsea cab driver, who was thrown from his car after driving the trio from Scollay sq. to East Cambridge.

Tocman said the culprits took $25 and his cab after first stretching a belt around his neck and threatening his life. The cab was recovered a short time afterwards.

Paper Mills Shut As Salvage Falls

Massachusetts waste paper mills were forced to shut down on war orders today because of lack of supplies, John C. Kiley, WPB regional director of salvage, announced.

Kiley disclosed that salvage of waste paper throughout the country has fallen 150,000 tons short of minimum needs since December.

"Complete figures are not yet in for New England," he said, "but they are worse than the national average because weather and transportation conditions have crippled salvage efforts during recent weeks.

"There can be only one conclusion. Production of paper of all kinds for civilian needs will have to be curtailed sharply, because military requirements must be met."

OPA in Florida Lists Out-of-State Autos

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 29 (AP)—Tourists from other states who drove their cars to Tampa and other east coast cities will have to do some explaining to their ration boards unless they can prove their auto trips to Florida were for bona-fide business or health reasons.

OPA investigators are starting a widespread investigation today of tourist camps, hotel garages, streets and highways for cars with out-of-state license tags, said W. T. Bowling, chief investigator of the Tampa OPA field office.

Sour Notes

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (INS)—Police were looking today for a thief who doesn't believe in signs.

He broke the display window of a bank and stole a currency display of $312 but paid no attention to a sign in the window reading "Know Your Money."

Half of the bills on display were counterfeit—and the other half bore no serial numbers and were printed only one side.

Million War Refugees Urged for Palestine

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (INS)—With a budget of $35,300,000 for the United Palestine Appeal of 1945, American Jewry was called upon today to support a plan for the settling in Palestine of a million Jewish refugees within two years after the European war has ended.

More than 2000 delegates attended the annual meeting yesterday. They pointed out that the expanded program makes greater financial sources imperative, since the budget is almost $10,000,000 more than 1944 expenses.

Stores, Theaters Set For New Hub Dimout

Boston stores, theaters and advertising companies today were reported prepared for the dimming of lights which has been ordered by the War Production Board to begin throughout the nation Thursday.

Street lights, according to authorities, will not be altered greatly since they already conform with WPB demands.

Youth Held in Bride's Death Admits He Tied Her to Bed

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 29 (INS) — Authorities said today Burr Walker, Jr., 17, formerly of Long Island, N. Y., charged with murder in the mysterious death of his bride, Jean Claus Walker, 18, would be held without bond at least until results of an autopsy are revealed.

Dist. Atty. Al Clyde, who opposed the release of the youth on bond, said autopsy findings would be known probably by Thursday.

The girl, an expectant mother, died last Thursday after being found in convulsions on a bed in the young couple's home with her arms and legs tied to the four bed posts.

Walker admitted he trussed her up, but declared it all was in play. He said he had hugged and kissed her while she was tied and added:

"I can't see why they think I murdered her. We often tied each other up in bed. Then the one who was not tied would tease the other. We thought all married couples did that."

Dist. Atty. Clyde ordered the examination to determine if the girl died from an internal hemorrhage. Otis Rogers, widely known Texas lawyer, who is expected to defend young Walker, agreed it would be useless to seek bail before an autopsy.

Walker's father, a New York telephone engineer, twice has conferred with Rogers by telephone.

The girl's body will be sent by train to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Claus in Mineola, L. I.

PROTEST U. S. NEWSPRINT TO FRANCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—A protest against sending any American newsprint to France was made to the State Department by members of a House committee which investigated the paper shortage in this country.

Chairman Boren (D.) of Oklahoma and Rep. Brown (R.) of Ohio, of the committee wrote Secretary Stettinius, calling attention to published reports that 5000 tons of United States newsprint will be shipped to France "within the month."

"Why should France appeal to us—3000 miles away—for pulp and paper when the world's greatest glut of pulp and paper capacity is right next door in Sweden, Finland and Russia?" they asked.

3 Events Tonight Aid Polio Fund

Boston's March of Dimes campaign to aid the fight against infantile paralysis reaches its climax tonight with a triple-feature program topped by the President's Birthday Ball.

First of the big events is a $100-a-plate dinner at the Copley-Plaza at which Basil O'Connor, national chairman of the Fund for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., will be principal speaker.

At Symphony Hall, Jack Benny and his famous radio company will present a special performance for the fund. Co-starring will be Mary Livingstone, Rochester, and Phil Harris and his orchestra. Ann Sheridan and Joan Edwards are also scheduled to appear.

Climaxing these events is the President's Birthday Party at the Boston Garden.

Mullen of the Boston Park Dept., a tableau, "Tribute to American Motherhood," and a gala military pageant in which all branches of the armed forces and their auxiliaries will participate.

Dancing will start at 11 p. m. and continue to 1 a. m. Tickets for the Birthday Party are available both at the downtown ticket office, 6 Water st., and at the Garden box offices.

Rails Rush Coal to N. E. As Frigid Wave Eases

Worried householders throughout Greater Boston and New England were given some comfort in this area's coal crisis today—but many a home still was cold.

Moderating temperatures gave some reassurance, while the emergency coal headquarters furnished hope for those whose bins are empty.

But the best news of all, according to fuel executives, concerned breakup of the traffic jam in snowbound Buffalo. A total of 73 freight trains with 3672 cars were reported free and headed east.

There was still congestion, however, in storm-bound yards at Rochester, Syracuse and Elmira, N. Y., it was reported by Eugene W. Coughlin of the car service division, Ass'n of American Railroads. Although the worst tieup is over, Coughlin said, a large backlog of cars is still being held up because of the jams in the yards east of Buffalo.

Meanwhile, officials in Boston reported that 10 stations established to insure emergency rations — especially for those who would carry it themselves—were working smoothly.

Similar relief was in operation in other sections of Greater Boston and most of Massachusetts.

Boston's emergency headquarters was called more than 500 times in the first 12 hours, officials revealed.

Schools of the city are open today and will continue to operate as long as coal supplies can be obtained. Most Boston schools have a five-day supply, and at least 37 have enough for the rest of the winter.

On Friday governors of the six New England states will gather for a conference to discuss emergency measures.

Perhaps hardest hit of all New England cities was Portland, Me., where social functions have been called off in all public buildings, and more serious steps may be necessary, officials said.

Wife Wins $1000 Balm In Suit Against Beautician

A verdict of $1000—balm for the loss of her husband's love—was awarded by a jury in Suffolk Superior Court today to Mrs. Trusiana Scire in her suit for alienation of affections against Miss Celia E. Marotta, East Boston beautician.

The wife who until her estrangement from her husband, Francis, had lived in Webster st., East Boston, charged she befriended Miss Marotta and brought her into her home, but that the young beautician had developed an undue friendship for her husband. Mrs. Scire had sought $25,000.

The jury had returned a sealed verdict last Friday night after deliberating eight hours, and the verdict was opened today before Judge Lewis Goldberg. Neither plaintiff nor defendant were in court at the time.

Mrs. Scire had testified that she and her husband were married in June, 1929, and were happy until 1934, when Miss Marotta came to live with them.

The wife also testified that during June, 1938, she and a detective, accompanied by witnesses, followed Scire and Miss Marotta to Revere Beach, where they watched them "carrying on," on the moonlit sands.

Miss Marotta's version of this Revere incident was quite different. Tearfully testifying, she said she was not alone with Scire at the time—that three other girls were along, and that they were enjoying hot dogs in a car—not on a moonlit beach—when Mrs. Scire appeared.

Sleet and Snow, Colder Tonight

Sleet turning to rain and back again to snow, with the temperature due to drop to 16 degrees in Boston tonight and 10 to 12 in the suburbs, was the weatherman's offering today.

The light snow which fell during the forenoon alerted state and city highway officials, who feared another heavy fall might make the fuel delivery crisis still more acute.

Chief Engineer James E. Lawrence of the State Highway Dept. had 600 men and 200 snow-removal units on state highways. Most of the units were sanding machines, with 50 plows clearing roads. All employes of the department were ordered to stand by for emergency.

Weather Forecaster G. Harold Noyes said fair but colder weather was expected tomorrow.

Jealousy Blamed In Slaying of Girl

SEATTLE, Jan. 29 (AP)—Jealousy was the apparent motive in the slaying of 14-year-old Marilyn Kirkey, Prosecutor Lloyd Shorett said today after further questioning of Irvin Squires, 16, held without charge in connection with the case.

Shorett said the youth told him: "I liked Marilyn a lot. I'll always love her. I knew what I'd get for it but I don't care. I knew I'd get life."

The prosecutor said Squires told him the Kirkey girl stopped going with him two months ago when he got into a fight with another youth who wanted to take her out.

Runaway Romance Dims in Courtroom

SALEM, Jan. 29—Sixteen-year-old Shirley E. Duncklee's prospects for romance today were as dark as her black-dyed hair.

The girl, a blonde when she disappeared last Wednesday, was back at her mother's home in Collins st. after the arrest of three Concord parolees on a series of auto theft and robbery charges ended plans for a double wedding in Seabrook, N. H., this week.

Shirley, who admitted she dyed her golden tresses to escape detection on her elopement, was found in the Brown ct. apartment of a girl friend, Georgette Russell, 19, by police who visited there on a tip by a woman who had recognized the disguised blonde.

City Marshal John C. Harkins revealed that the girls were planning a double Gretna Green ceremony. Shirley, he said, was to marry Richard Converse, 20, of Central st., and Georgette, James Kalevas, 18, of Harris st., Peabody.

Instead, Converse and Kalevas faced arraignment in Salem court today along with Sigmund R. Wysocki, 18, of Nursery st. All three are on parole from Concord.

Converse is charged with two auto thefts. Kalevas is accused on three counts of car stealing, and Wysocki faced a charge of auto larceny and breaking and entering in the nighttime. In addition, Converse and Kalevas were held for Revere police on a charge of armed robbery.

Police said Converse and Kalevas had confessed to driving a stolen car to Revere Friday, abandoning it when it bogged down in a snow bank, and to looting a gasoline station. They also are charged with slugging and armed robbery of a man and woman who came to the filling station seeking gasoline while they were there.

Frank Bowser, 35, of Middlesex ave., Medford, was robbed of a $200 diamond ring, $25 and a $500 check. His companion, Miss Helen Reardon, 28, of Edgar st., Somerville, was robbed of $5. Both were beaten.

Salem Police Lts. John F. Bates and John J. Ryan, who arrested the youths, said Converse and Kalevas admitted they staged the robbery to finance their expected elopement and wedding trip. The girls, police said, took no part in the escapades and were unaware of the youths' background.

Baby Unseen by Dad Suffocates

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. for Gerard W. Sullivan, 9-months-old son of Army Sgt. and Mrs. Edward J. Sullivan of Garland rd., Newton, who was suffocated in his crib.

His father, who is on duty with the Air Force in France, had never seen the child.

Medical Examiner Thomas M. Gallagher said the baby suffocated when he slid down beneath the blankets which had been pinned to the side of the crib. The Newton fire rescue squad tried vainly for more than an hour to revive the infant.

The Sullivans have another son, Edward J., Jr., 2.

SEARCH WRECKAGE WHERE TWO DIED IN MYSTERY BLAST—Neighbors search through the South Dartmouth ruins where a mysterious explosion took the lives of Mrs. Ida Mattson, 81, and her son, Theodore, 43, after both Army and Navy officials disclaimed the blast was caused by an aerial bomb. More than 30 houses were damaged by tremendous detonation. INP by Myer Ostroff

Buffalo Gambler In Murder Net

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 29 (AP)—Police today questioned gamblers and racketeers in their search for the slayer of Edward J. Pospichal, 32, "Lone Wolf" crusader against vice and gambling.

The frozen body of Pospichal, shot five times through the head and neck, was found in River st. near Buffalo Harbor.

History--On Run

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 29 (AP)—A fourth grader wasn't satisfied with teacher's answer that the Russians were about 100 miles from Berlin.

"That," he protested, "was an hour ago."

Foxhole Trap

LEYTE, Philippines (delayed) (AP)—The war on Leyte had its lighter side, as when a GI dived into the nearest hole when an air raid warning sounded.

After the Jap planes had gone the GI was heard shouting for help. His foxhole turned out to be a new outdoor plumbing excavation some 12 feet deep. He couldn't climb out.

Grab by 2 Dictators Perils Europe Peace

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Dean of American Foreign Correspondents

MADRID, Jan. 29—The war "for democracy" in Europe is rapidly moving in the direction of the grab-bag of imperialism.

The American people may discover when too late that all our heavy sacrifices of splendid American manhood and billions of dollars, burdening taxpayers for more than a generation, have been to satisfy the imperialistic greed of others, and replace two totalitarian dictatorial systems by a third.

Marshal Stalin, who is far on the road to become the new master of Europe, now demands Trieste, at the head of the Adriatic Sea, as a Soviet Russian port and base, according to usually well-informed diplomatic circles.

It is reportedly part of the Communist Kremlin's drang to the Mediterranean, and part of Moscow's demand for a demilitarized or Soviet controlled Dardanelles.

Inner Italian circles in Rome are reported to be very uneasy over Moscow's alleged reaching out for Trieste, largest port and shipping point on the Adriatic.

Gen. De Gaulle, patriotic and very ambitious French leader, now also has put France into the lists for imperialistic gains, alongside his ally, Marshal Stalin.

France, next to Britain, has the largest colonial empire in the world.

Her low birth rate, lowest in Europe, scarcely more than balances her death rate.

Her population is only 192 per square mile, as against Britain's United Kingdom 482, Germany 352, Italy 338, Japan, ranging from 459 to 1024 on different homeland islands, United States 44, Canada under eight, and in the habitable part of Australia, 2.2.

According to De Gaulle, France wants all that large slice of German territory on the west side of the Rhine. Not only that, he wants some territory on the east side.

The reason he gives is security against a Germany that is to be completely disarmed, demilitarized and made impotent.

Stalin can at least put forward for totalitarian Communist Soviet imperialism that his Red armies have won and are winning great victories, and therefore he is entitled to play the role of the conqueror.

Senate Secretary Dies in Washington

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—Col. Edwin A. Halsey, 63, secretary of the Senate, died early today at Doctors Hospital of a heart ailment complicated by his preparations for President Roosevelt's fourth term inauguration.

Halsey had been an employe of the Senate since 1897 and its secretary since 1933. A native of Tye River, Va., he was sergeant at arms at the Democratic national conventions from 1928 through 1940. Ill health prevented his accepting that post at the 1944 convention.

A STATEMENT ABOUT DELIVERIES

By careful planning and conservation and with the cooperation of our many customers, we have been able thus far to maintain a restricted delivery service. We regret the need for additional restrictions but the present acute shortage of manpower, trucks and gasoline makes necessary the following:

1. We regret that we can make NO DELIVERIES for the present except to our regular delivery customers.

2. We are reluctantly obliged to ask our regular customers to LIMIT THEIR PURCHASES for delivery so that the order can be contained in one of our delivery boxes.

3. We may find it necessary to eliminate delivery of certain HEAVY OR BULKY ITEMS.

Tobin to Distribute 1st Plums This Week

A big change in the state's executive personnel comes before Gov. Tobin beginning Wednesday when terms expire for more than 50 state officers—some of them holding highly important posts.

Tax Comr. Henry F. Long, who has held office more than 20 years and who was a target of the governor in the last campaign, is one of these.

Thus far Tobin has declined comment, but some State House observers say Thomas H. Buckley of Abington, state auditor from 1935 to 1939, and now deputy collector of internal revenue in Boston, has an inside track on the job if the governor makes a change.

There are many other top commissionerships in which the terms expire, including those of State Racing Comr. Charles F. Connors of Boston; Comptroller Walter S. Morgan of Sharon; Comr. of Corrections Arthur T. Lyman; Comr. of Agriculture Mark K. Galusha of Williamstown, now in the Army, whose place is being filled by Acting Comr. Louis A. Webster; Eugene C. Hultman, of the Metropolitan District Commission of the Public Works Dept., and George P. Drury of Cambridge, commissioner of Public Utilities.

Other office holders whose terms run out Jan. 31 are:

Also John B. Lentz, Board of Registration in Veterinary Medicine; Robert B. Osgood, trustee of the Massachusetts Hospital School; Forrest W. Heffermehl, trustee of the Norfolk County Agricultural School; Pilot Comrs. Orville S. Pinkham and Lorenzo M. Crowell of District 1, and Deputy Pilot Comrs. Arthur H. Sunderland of District 4, Michael C. Quinn of District 3 and Roger H. Martin of District 2.

The remainder of the list of 50 are masters in chancery and public administrators.

8000 Medical WACs, 2000 Men Among Vital War Needs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Office of War Information said today:

"The government needs and asks its citizens in this 164th week of the war to:

"Answer the emergency call for 8000 medical WACs. Women from 20 to 50 are needed immediately for nonprofessional medical work in Army hospitals.

"Help to relieve the doctor and nurse shortage by taking a Red Cross nursing course to learn how to care for your own family.

"Insist on proper identification before cashing dependency and government checks. Last year 13,439 government checks were stolen and forged.

"Help make vital ammunition. Two thousand husky unskilled men are needed to speed a 33 1-3 per cent increase in production of brass strip used in small arms and artillery ammunition.

"Always include your mileage rationing record when applying for supplemental gasoline, to expedite action on your request and to help over-worked gasoline ration boards. Many motorists have failed to do so, causing needless delay and extra work."

"Smart Set Functions," by Betty Alden, daily in the Boston American.

Showdown Battle On Job Bill Opens

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—In no mood to compromise, the House dug in today for a showdown fight on limited National Service legislation for men between 18 and 45.

A decision is expected Thursday or Friday. First, however, will come debate and maneuvers on an anti-closed shop amendment and a proposal for statutory backing for the fair employment practices committee.

A week-end of overtures and sounding out of sentiment failed to uncover a common ground for compromise of deep-seated differences between organized labor advocates and a bloc seeking to impose stringent curbs on union activities.

"We will fight it out on the floor and I believe we have enough votes to win," Chairman May (D.) of Kentucky of the House Military Committee said of the bill as a whole.

May said he would resist attempts to write into the bill a ban against requiring a man to join a union if his local draft board assigns him to work in a closed shop.

The measure provides that men between 18 and 45 may not leave essential jobs without draft board approval and must take such jobs at draft board request under penalty of induction, fine or imprisonment.

A provision requiring boards to give a reasonable choice of jobs, May said, adequately protects the freedom of the worker to refrain from joining a union.

This provision, however, does not meet the approval of a large bloc of Southern Democrats and rural Republican representatives, who may seek to impose an outright ban on strikes and permit nonunion men to work in closed shops.

Organized labor is aiming a two-pronged drive at the legislation. It is opposing the closed shop amendment and is backing a counterproposal to prevent an employer from being rated as essential if he discriminates against workers because of race, creed or color.

U. S. Speeds Appeal Of Verdict on Ward's

CHICAGO, Jan. 29 (AP)—The government today began legal preparation to appeal federal court ruling that President Roosevelt acted without authority in the seizure of Montgomery Ward and Co. properties.

J. Albert Woll, United States attorney, said yesterday he believed the case would be carried to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in a day or two. Court rules allow the appellant 60 days to take action.

Under a stay of proceedings granted by Judge Philip L. Sullivan in his ruling Saturday, the Army continued its operation of the 16 seized Ward properties in Chicago and seven other cities.

Sullivan ruled that Ward's is not a war production plant within the meaning of the war labor disputes act and therefore is not subject to seizure powers of the act. act.

Ward's properties were seized by the Army Dec. 28 under Presidential order after Ward's noncompliance with war labor directives providing for wage increases and maintenance of membership. The company contended that WLB ruling are advisory and not binding.

Sullivan's decision dismissed the government's petition for a judgement upholding seizure and for an injunction to restrain Ward's officials from interference with War Department operation of the seized facilities.

Regardless of which side is upheld when the dispute reaches the court of appeals, it was expected the case would eventually be taken to the Supreme Court for final settlement.

Bogart-Bacall Love Mystifies Filmland

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 29 (AP)—The mystery of the week in Hollywood was why Humphrey Bogart journeyed 2000 miles to an Ohio farm to announce his romance with young Lauren Bacall, his new and intriguing leading lady.

Bogart's disclosure confirmed what most everyone out here had suspected ever since he made the picture, "To Have and Have Not" with the willowy-shaped Lauren, and it may be that Hollywood's favorite team, the Battling Bogarts, has broken up for good.

Yet to be heard from, however, is the other half, Mayo Methot, and she's not bad copy herself when it comes to her Bogie.

Otherwise, things in Bagdad-on-the-Pacific ran a leisurely course. Neither Charlie Chaplin nor Errol Flynn got sued for anything.

Ann Miller, the dancer with the beautiful legs, said she might marry a Chicago business man, but there appeared to be a slight technicality to overcome. He happens to have another wife at the moment.

The former Carol Gallagher indicated she would divorce Dick Foran soon, which is a switch in plans. Previously she thought she'd wait until after the birth of their baby in the spring.

Truman Taking Plane For Pendergast Rites

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Star, in a special dispatch from its Washington correspondent, said Vice-Pres. Truman would fly from Washington to Kansas City in an Army bomber today to attend the funeral of Tom Prendergast, former Democratic boss who helped Truman get his start in politics.

Immediately after the funeral, Truman planned to leave in the same plane for Philadelphia where he has a speaking engagement tonight, the Star said.

Preston Fosters In Divorce Court

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 29—Surprising and sad is the news that the Preston Fosters expect to end their 19-year marriage in the divorce court today.

Judge Arthur Miller, who represents Mrs. Foster, was to ask for a divorce in her name, and Preston did not plan to contest.

Preston Foster

The judge said the usual charges of incompatibility would be made. He attributed the break to the couple's wide differences of temperament. Mrs. Foster is a non-professional, and knows little about the theatrical world of which her husband has for so long been a part.

A financial settlement already has been made, and custody of their little adopted daughter has been given Mrs. Foster under an agreement which permits the child's father to see her whenever he wishes.

Mrs. Foster will continue to live at their ranch in Newhall, while Preston will make his home for the time being at Hollywood Athletic Club. He has just signed a new contract with M-G-M.

Colorado Charged With Treaty Deal

By RAY RICHARDS

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—Charges that a secret deal involving enormous resources and expenditures exists between the State of Colorado and the National Administration on the proposed rivers treaty with Mexico will be placed by Californians before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee this week, it was announced today.

According to N. H. Jensen, spokesman for California water and power interests, opponents of the treaty will seek to prove that Colorado has promised support to the compact in trade for government financing in diverting 2,000,000 acre-feet of Colorado river water annually across the Rocky mountains for use in the dry eastern Colorado flatlands.

Jensen said the attitude of the California and Nevada interests toward the suspected hidden agreement is that passage of the water over or through the Rockies to swell the volume of the Arkansas and La Platte rivers would be an unfair diversion of the water from its natural territory, despite the fact that 63 per cent of the river's flow originates in western Colorado.

"Our specific charge will be," Jensen said, "that Colorado has consented to support the treaty provided the government assists in the installation of huge pumping, diversion and water storage works to spread the water on the eastern side of the mountains in Colorado."

He indicated that the Californians hope, if they can prove their allegation, that California and Nevada will receive a more united support against the treaty from several upper basin states, some of the officials of which now side with the State Dept. in advocating the Mexico treaty.

The terms of the suspected deal would give eastern Colorado more water, by 500,000 acre-feet annually, than the 1,500,000 acre-feet yearly which the treaty proposes for Mexico, and all the other states of the basin would thus suffer a disastrous drain.

Officer on Trial In Army Looting

PARIS, Jan. 29 (AP)—The first officer to face the U. S. general court-martial trying railway battalion black market cases here went to trial today on charges of wrongfully receiving looted Army supplies and money which he knew came from selling such loot.

The officer, Lt. John W. Springer, also was charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States and with neglect of his duty as an officer in failing to prevent looting of supply trains headed for the front lines and diversion of their supplies to the black market.

Springer was accused of receiving 1500 packs of looted cigarets (valued at 150,000 francs, or about $3000 in the blackmarket) and such items as safety matches, razor blades, one pair of combat boots, and candy rolls.

The charge also alleged he received $400 from a soldier, knowing it came from sale of looted supplies.

North Weymouth Flier Olive Cited

Lt. Robert C. Olive of Cliff st., North Weymouth, has been cited for "aggressiveness and courage under enemy fire" as co-pilot of a Liberator which contributed to the sinking of two Jap ships, his father, G. Chipman Olive, has been notified.

Olive's plane and another Liberator sank one Jap merchant ship and crippled a second in the area of the Marianas. A Navy dispatch disclosed that the Weymouth flier's plane released bombs at masthead height and scored a "near miss" off the fantail of one vessel, with such resultant concussion the ship keeled over on its side.

The Liberator finished off the other Jap with repeated low level bombing and strafing runs.

Olive was graduated from Weymouth High School in 1940. He entered Tufts but left to join the Navy in January, 1942, training at Squantum and winning his wings at Pensacola, Fla. He was sent overseas last July.

Monk Says Reds Come as Friends

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (INS)—A German Franciscan monk appealed over the Moscow radio to the population of Breslau "not to let it come to street fighting" and assured them that "the Red army is not coming to Breslau as your enemy, but as the enemy of the Hitler clique," the British radio reported.

The German monk was quoted as saying:

"In this decisive hour I would like to assure you that, under the Russian occupation, you will have an opportunity to go freely about your daily tasks. Don't let your houses be wrecked and your churches destroyed."

WHAT WALLACE WANTS TO DO

By E. F. TOMPKINS

HENRY WALLACE told the Senate Commerce Committee that he wants to be Secretary of Commerce and director of the mammoth Reconstruction Finance Corporation in order to help carry out President Roosevelt's so-called new "Bill of Rights."

But Mr. Wallace himself has had for a decade an economic program of his own, evidences of which appeared in his "crop-scarcity" policies as Secretary of Agriculture and in his game of "give away" in the Board of Economic Warfare. This plan is on record.

In 1934 Mr. Wallace presented it in a pamphlet called "America Must Choose" and more than 100,000 copies of the revelatory document were distributed by the "Foreign Policy Association and World Peace Foundation."

MR. WALLACE contended that there are two extreme ways in one or other of which America "must" go.

One of these he called Economic Nationalism, the other Economic Internationalism.

"My own bias," he confessed, "is international. It is an inborn attitude with me."

As an "internationalist" he would "go all the way" if he could—and take America along.

Since that may not be possible at once, however, he suggests a "rigorously planned middle trail."

But, whatever the course, Mr. Wallace believes that as far back as 1934 the New Deal had already imposed upon the nation a regime of regimentation and constriction from which there could be no escape.

"Much as we all dislike them," he wrote, "the NEW TYPES of social control that we have now in operation are HERE TO STAY and TO GROW ON A WORLD SCALE."

If we follow the "national path," Mr. Wallace asserted, we will have to remove 40,000,000 to 100,000,000 acres of our farm land permanently from production—"forty million if we take out GOOD land; 100 million if we take out the worst."

This, it is explained, would compel us to transplant a large part of the agricultural population to new homes and jobs, or to a dole.

THE "INTERNATIONAL" program, we were told on the other hand, would require us drastically to "lower tariffs and reorganize industry, so that we can receive from abroad another billion dollars worth of goods each year"—that is, a billion dollars more than in our banner import year of 1929.

The "internationalism" program will put industrialists instead of farmers out of business, Mr. Wallace explains.

"If we are going to lower tariffs radically," he wrote, "there may have to be some DEFINITE PLANNING whereby CERTAIN INDUSTRIES OR BUSINESSES WILL HAVE TO BE RETIRED.

"The Government might have to help FURNISH MEANS for the orderly retirement of such businesses and EVEN SELECT THOSE WHICH ARE TO BE RETIRED."

In other words, under the pretense of supporting and "saving" the free enterprise system, to which Mr. Wallace professes fidelity sometimes, the Government would forbid either a large number of farmers to farm or a large number of manufacturers to manufacture, and, by consequence, a large number of traders to trade and a large number of workers to work, unless they work for the government.

Banking and transportation would, of course, suffer in either case.

So Mr. Wallace ponderously offered an "easy" alternative. In his words:

"The planned middle course I propose . . . is one precisely halfway between those two extremes: A line of march along which we would lower tariffs enough to bring in another half-billion dollars worth of goods annually, and permanently retract of our GOOD agricultural land some 25 million acres."

Industry would be hit in two ways under the Wallace plan—part of it condemned to death to make way for foreign competition with what remained, the rest of it deprived of a great part of its home market in the rural states.

TO CARRY OUT his "middle course," Mr. Wallace conceded, would require a high degree of "social discipline"—which plainly means bureaucracy in government, regimentation of the people, rapacious taxation and a perpetually staggering national debt.

This, then, is the long-nurtured program of the man who wants to be Secretary of Commerce and director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, with a hundred billion dollars at his command wherewith to inflict his job-destroying "social" and "economic" ideas upon the American people, and who talks glibly to Congress about PROVIDING sixty million jobs!

BROOKLYN: Haven't seen the film version of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" but hear it is a powerful and well-produced picture. The locale of the Betty Smith story is the Williamsburg section of the city. It was once the most congested residential area in Brooklyn. It had a polyglot population and was a slum area. Next to Williamsburg on the north is Brooklyn's celebrated Greenpoint section. This is where the dialect known as "Brooklynese" originated. You know what I mean, pronouncing Greenpoint as "Greenpernt," oil as "erl" and pearl as "perl."

A Japanese husband can divorce his wife with three lines of writing but if the wife leaves home she is brought back by the police.

Yet we are led to believe that the highly romantic female of the species prefers a church wedding. The angle seems to be that at the present time women are so anxious to get a man tied up as a permanent meal ticket they don't care where they are married as long as a binding contract results. I am supposed to be a hard-boiled guy yet all my life I have wanted to get married in the same church in which my parents were wed. None of these slap bang wedding ceremonies for me."*

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THE INCIDENT of Elliott Roosevelt's dog is a good occasion to teach some generals their proper place in relation to the civil authority.

"No comment," says the headquarters of the Army Transport Command when asked who authorized an "A" travel priority on an Army plane for the dog, traveling as private property, which bumped three servicemen off the ship at Memphis.

Westbrook Pegler

What do you mean, "No comment"?

The thing to do now is to call up Gen. Harold L. George, of this command, make him click his heels before a committee of Congress, stand at attention and answer questions.

This command needs reminding of its status and probably some new personnel without political motives, ambitions or obligations.

No officer whose administration has been such as to permit this misuse of Army property and this imposition on enlisted men on behalf of a dog should be allowed to consider himself immune to questioning. He can be made to answer.

This is no mere "unfortunate incident," but an expression of a dangerous attitude of superiority by military men over the civil population. In France, recently, enlisted soldiers have been sentenced to long terms in prison for black market operations comparable in principle to the episode of Elliott Roosevelt's dog.

Like the government cigarets which those soldiers sold for their profit, this plane was the property of the American people, not of any general or President Roosevelt's family and, like the cigarets, the accommodations allotted to this dog were misappropriated to private use.

WHILE THE SUBJECT is warm, there is occasion also to check the priorities on commercial transports which have been practically monopolized by the government, with civilians outside the privileged class imposed on with delays, expense and hardship.

It is no justification to say that civilians should not travel unnecessarily. The law is that they have as much right to travel as Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the Hollywood group that went to Washington to celebrate their fourth-term victory, or the 300 members of the 1000 Club, whose trip consumed the equivalent of a 14-car Pullman train to and from the capital.

Civilians have as much right to travel in the best accommodations to be had as Elliott's latest wife, whose trip for the inauguration seems to have been her second since their marriage.

They are no less entitled to go to conventions, whether of antique dealers or the Sons and Daughters of I Will Arise, than Mrs. Roosevelt, Sidney Hillman and a thousand others were to occupy train space to Chicago for the purely political convention of the CIO or William Green, Dan Tobin, Joe Padway and all the miscellaneous the miscellaneous high-binders WERE TO GO high-binders were to go to the convention of the American Federation of Labor in New Orleans.

If such people have the right of assembly, so have that great and faceless multitude whom these patronizing and self-recognized superiors refer to as "the little people."

WHEN AN "A" priority can be had for a dog occupying three seats in an Army transport plane, it may be suspected that this was not the first abuse, but merely the ultimate outrage, perpetrated by men emboldened to excess by earlier impositions.

There is no reason to anticipate that the characteristic snobbery and sense of privilege of the ruling household will be abated or embarrassed by the findings of a Congressional inquiry, however scandalous.

Mrs. Roosevelt expressed this attitude when she remarked, apropos her own restless wanderings, that she traveled because "the people want me to," a mandate that must have been done in invisible ink, inasmuch as no such proposition has ever appeared to the naked eye on the ballot or in any of her party's platforms.

Nowadays she still commutes between Washington and New York on a trolley-car schedule, to make speeches of no imperative importance and take a few young friends to the play.

If these be legitimate missions, remembering that Mrs. Roosevelt usually travels double with her secretary; if her trips by plane long after under-privileged civilians were being "bumped" at way stations were justified, then any Army wife following her husband, any mother bound for the embarkation port, any aimless member of "the little people" has the same justification.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 29—When has there been a picture cast, I ask you, that Gregory Peck's name hasn't come up. Well, M-G-M's prize-winning best-seller Green Dolphin Street," is no exception.

Carey Wilson, who tells me it's a summer certainty now, wants Gegory for the male lead in Elizabeth Goudge's novel, which won the M-G-M novel contest. Laraine Day is well set for one of the sister roles. There are many other important parts which are now being cast.

Laraine Day

The story is about two sisters, and the wrong one marries the man, Gregory Peck, I presume. John Meighan is writing the screen treatment of the novel, which has had such wide circulation and has appeared on the best seller list almost as long as "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn."

WHEN I PRINTED the story of Alexis Smith's suspension at Warners I said the studio probably had their side. Well, here it is: Jack Warner, who handed out the suspension, says: "I consider 'The Shadow of a Woman' a good picture, and I think Alexis has been listening to some very bad advice. Studios do not build young players up from unknowns to stars by giving them inferior properties. In the beginning, Paul Henreid was never considered for the lead, so she couldn't have believed his part better. I have put Andrea King, one of our most promising young actresses, in Alexis' place, and we believe it will make a star of her."

A HURRY CALL went to Ronald Colman, vacationing at Montecito with Benita (and Miss C.). "How about doing the other male role in 'Fountainhead'?" asked Mervyn Le Roy. "It was meant for you." "Send up the script," came back Colman's reply. So it's a fair gamble Ronnie will join with Humphrey Bogart and Barbara Stanwyck in a cast Mervyn has determined will end all casts in importance at Warners.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: There was a rumor floating around Hollywood that Nancy Kelly had been married secretly to Fred Jackman, Jr., for four months. Nancy spiked the rumor and said it was not true. She said, "I was married in the church to Edmund O'Brien, and I wouldn't want to marry anyone unless I could get an ecclesiastical annulment." She has bought a house in the Valley and said she supposed the rumor started when she took Jackman's twin boys by a previous marriage, aged 13, to live with her until their aunt, who broke her foot, was well enough to care for them. She admits if she could be married in the church she would marry Jackman.

Both men emphasized that no stories or plays will be selected and no plans made until Capra is out of uniform. However, Briskin will open offices immediately so as to be in readiness when his partner is free.

THE LAST FLASH out of Warners is the Humphrey Bogart-Lauren Bacall team will be broken up (temporarily, at least) while Bogey makes a picture with Eleanor Parker. But George Landy of the Frank Vincent agency has sold Howard Hawks the new Cleve Adams detective thriller, "The Black Door," and I bet you dollars to doughnuts that sultry Bacall and Bogey will be the stars. It's about a hard-boiled detective, who operates against a San Diego background, and a glamorous heiress, both of whom become involved in chicanery (a good 10 word for double crossing).

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM. The Lou Costellos are adopting twin boys. Mrs. Costello is in Chicago to make the adoption arrangements; the Moe Mankiewicys have reconciled and Joe is back home; suspensions, suspensions everywhere! Dorothy McGuire has taken a suspension so she can remain in the East with her husband, John Swope, until he leaves overseas; a hot rumor around town is John Sutton and Mary Lou Dix are married. He's in the Navy, stationed in Washington, D. C., and she's back there with him. They announced their engagement some time ago; Mona Maris has set June 14 as the date of her marriage to Louis Lohman. It's his birthday; Jimmy Dunn is buying a house, and unless all signs fail he'll take Edna Rush there as his bride; Steve Brodie will marry Mrs. Carolyn Fortre on February 12, the day she gets her final from Vincent Fortre. There's no truth in the story Forte is marrying Ana Miller; Maureen O'Sullivan Farrow's baby is due any minute; a man Hollywood is very proud of is 47-year-old Army Pilot Dick Grace, former stunt man. Although injured at Christmas time, he's back on the job doing his best to defeat the Krauts.

For Secretary of State—this is an important post and we must proceed cautiously. The main qualification, of course, is tactlessness—John L. Lewis.

For Secretary of Labor—Tom Girdler seems the outstanding candidate, although we could compromise on Westbrook Pegler.

For Secretary of the Treasury—What we need here is a man who knows how to go bankrupt efficiently. Too bad we can't get Sam Insull.

For Attorney General—No possible chance of disagreement—Earl Browder.

For Postmaster General — I hope to grab this for the little woman. She abhors writing letters—and she never yet has quite grasped the fact that a letter doesn't get on its way until it is dropped in the slot of one of those green boxes.

For Secretary of the Navy—John Maynard, the Washington drama critic. He once got seasick looking at the reflecting pool.

For Secretary of War—Either Henry Ford or Charlie Perkins of the Statler. The latter is always pacifying somebody.

For Secretary of Agriculture—That horny-handed old tiller of the soil from the back forty acres—Fiorello H. LaGuardia.

THERE ARE a number of lesser jobs we still have to fill. For one suggestion, I am deeply indebted to Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan. Utterly unsolicited, he advanced Frank Sinatra for chief justice.

Naturally, old-age pensions should go to Margaret O'Brien, the child prodigy of the cinema, but my advisers—or brain busters, as I call them—cannot agree whether Social Security should go to Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean. Some say yes; some say no.

THERE WAS some talk among my brain busters of giving the Veterans' Administration to Col. Oveta Culp Hobby, but I have just made a disturbing discovery. Col. Hobby is in the WACs illegally!

Yes, she is, by golly! The law says no woman can be a WAC who has children under 14 . . . and the gallant colonel has two in that category!

★ ★ ★

I HAVE DECIDED to keep Reconstruction Finance Corporation for myself. I never had the handling of over $8 in my life—and what I couldn't do with $40,000,000,000!

★ ★ ★

YOU MAY RECALL that my Boy Scout deed of a couple of weeks ago was to implore the White House to invite Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo to the inaugural. Well . . . I will continue to do good deeds wherever possible. I have just been sent word that the daughter of Woodrow Wilson got her invitation!

★ ★ ★

MR. LESLIE BIFFLE, secretary to the Senate majority, escorted a group of ladies, including Mrs. Truman, to the Senate gallery to watch Vice-President Truman do his first job of presiding. They were leaving the august chamber when a huge rat darted across their path.

This may sound incredible—but the sight of the rodent caused Mr. Biffle to leap involuntarily. Without any intention on his part, his left foot came down on the rat, nailing it to the floor!

I asked him what—if anything—he had said when he descended on the beast.

"What did I say?" exclaimed Mr. Biffle. "I said, 'I beg your pardon!' of course."

Beauty — New Scientific Cream for Loveliness — Fashion

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

TODAY, as our hearts turn hopefully toward victory and women dream of the day of return of loved ones . . . it might be well for every woman to pause and take stock of herself. For the magnificent role women have played in this war will not be finished the day of victory. A period of readjustment lies ahead for her and her warriors.

Her part is dominant in this . . . and for it she will need every asset at her command . . . her best in appearance . . . well-being and moral stamina. Even as the problems of the day still beset us . . . even as our hearts are still heavy with concern . . . let us remember that a woman often feels just about as well as she looks. Let us remember, also, that among the many debts we owe our fighting men is that of keeping ourselves attractive, resourceful and truly good companions . . . so that their home-coming will be a joyous reunion all around.

And so a wonderfully fine scientific cream . . . created by a woman whose life has been devoted to the physical beauty and welfare of women . . . to help skin look younger . . . has a mission of morale as well as personal enhancement.

If you're not 30 or over, you won't want this cream . . . for it contains the physiological equivalent of an estrogenic substance which begins to slow up and diminish once a woman reaches this age. It is one of those scientific creams which the medicos agree have a definite place on the cosmetic horizon . . . and which basically can and does help the maturing skin.

No matter how we pamper ourselves . . . few are the women not subjected to increased wear and tear these days . . . and sensible, effective care of appearance and well-being is certainly common-sense social security.

You need but a small amount of this cream with which nightly to massage the skin. Use it on your hands and neck . . . for like the face . . . the tissues will absorb its youthifying ingredient to render the skin soft and resilient. Don't expect miracles overnight. Have a mite of patience . . . and within a month you'll notice an appreciable difference not only in the texture of your skin . . . but in the general appearance.

For the name of this youthifying, scientific cream, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IF YOU'RE A WOMAN, you're fashion-conscious . . . and if you're fashion-conscious you'll be interested in wearing this Sally Victor vanilla felt knockout topper with new coronet crown, combined with softly rippled brim. But, how about your face? The new chapeaux demand exquisite faces . . . young, vibrant complexions to set them off. If you're 30 or over today's discussed new scientific cream will start you on the complexion-road to loveliness.

WITH A BUCCANEER flare and dash, these soft, yet tailored nuplexsuede gloves . . . hand sewn with Wear-Right's exclusive stitch . . . are wonderfully keyed to the new soft-dressmaker clothes. The casualness of gloves . . . featuring drawstring ends in a self-fabric tassel . . . end up in superb finger flattery . . . because they are no fuss or bother to get into. Gloves can be a smart accessory.—R. M.

One-Dish Casserole Meal Continues to Gain Favor

By MARTHA LEE

MEAL PATTERNS are changing as everyone knows. The main course at dinner no longer consists of the traditional trio—meat, potatoes and another vegetable. Today an all-in-one casserole dish consisting of meat, fish, cheese, eggs or beans, or one or more vegetables combined may, with a green salad, serve as the main course.

Count on at least one casserole meal a week and you will be surprised how well they will take with the family and save you time and extra work besides. Made with fresh vegetables and satisfying ingredients, the one-dish casserole meal may be as substantial as the occasion demands.

ONE DISH DINNER

1 pkg. spaghetti
1 lb. beef, ground
1 can tomato soup
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tbsp. fat.

Brown onion, peppers and meat in hot fat. Add tomato soup. Pour over cooked spaghetti and pour entire mixture into a buttered casserole. This dish may be prepared and stored in the food compartment of the refrigerator before baking. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F., 30 to 45 minutes.

Pork and beans also obligingly lend themselves to casserole dishes, nice to serve occasionally, for the sake of variety.

CASSEROLE OF BEANS WITH FRANKFURTERS

2 cans (16 oz.) pork and beans
1 lb. frankfurters

Butter a heavy casserole and in it empty 1 can pork and beans. Cut the frankfurters in half lengthwise. Arrange ½ lb. of frankfurters on the beans; then add the second can of pork and beans and arrange the remaining frankfurters on top. Brush the split side of the frankfurters with melted butter. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 1 hour. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

CASSEROLE OF CHICKEN AND VEGETABLES

1 1½ lb. broiler
¼ medium carrots, pared and quartered
1½ cups diced, pared potatoes
1 medium onion, sliced
¼ tsp. savory, or crushed sage
½ cup chicken broth
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
Paprika

Order broiler cut into quarters, with backbone and neck removed. Simmer the backbone, neck and the giblets in 1½ cups water to make broth. Arrange vegetables in bottom of a greased 1½-quart casserole. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and savory. Arrange chicken on top of vegetables. Pour over chicken broth, and sprinkle top with paprika. Cover and bake in a moderately hot oven of 375 deg. F. for 1 hour, or until chicken is tender. Remove cover and bake 15 minutes longer, or until chicken is brown. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

A good way to use leftover mashed potato, always a problem to the homemaker, is the following method: Cream some butter into the mashed potato, add salt and pepper and thin cream or milk. Pile this into the casserole dish. Lay country sausage in a circle on top of the potato mixture and alternate each sausage by a quartered tomato. Baked until crusted a delicate brown in the oven, this casserole is bound to be something different when it comes to the table.

SHEPHERD'S PIE

¼ cups leftover roast beef, cut in 1-inch pieces
2 cups cooked sliced carrots
1 cup cooked small onions
2½ cups brown gravy
3 cups fluffy mashed potatoes
1 egg, beaten

Arrange the beef, carrots, and onion in a 2-quart casserole or in six individual casseroles. Pour over the gravy, then top with the mashed potatoes, to which the egg has been added. Bake in a hot oven of 425 deg. F. for 45 minutes. Makes six servings. If you have no leftover gravy, it can be made from beef cubes, canned bouillon, or meat or vegetable extract. Roast lamb or veal may be substituted for the beef.

Conserve Fats—WFA

"It's up to us all—farmers, housewives, industry and all," says War Food Administration, "to keep on producing and conserving fats. We've got to have all the fats and oils we can get—and more." Save every drop of used cooking fat. It's worth cash and extra ration points.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Sunday—Friday I talked for a while with a representative of the East and West Ass'n and was interested to hear of the plans for their meetings here in Washington. The effort to acquaint us with Oriental people and to change our rather narrow conception of them is a good preparation for what we all hope will be better co-operation in the future.

A few friends came to lunch that day, among them Miss Marcia Dalrymple of the office of the co-ordinator of inter-American affairs, who has just visited nine of the Latin-American countries. She was most enthusiastic about her trip and spoke especially of the work which the women are doing in the various countries to improve the standard of living among the people.

There is, of course, a great deal to be done from the point of view of health and nutrition and education, and many of these countries are beginning today on things which have long been accomplished in the United States. Therefore, we can be of real assistance.

* * *

IN THE AFTERNOON I attended a meeting called by John McGarraghy, chairman of the Recreation Services, Inc., at the United Nations Service Center, to discuss the possibility of meeting the recreation needs of government girl workers more adequately than is now being done.

It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that more recreational opportunities were not needed, but that getting the information of what is now available to the girls is not being successfully done.

In addition, it was felt that because many of them live far away from the places where they work, and often do not want to go home between the end of work and the time for a dinner engagement or a movie, some kind of downtown center might be of real value. Whether this can be accomplished or not will have to be explored.

Sleeveless, Full-Skirted

By BETTINA BEDWELL

ONE of the important style trends for spring is for the sleeveless dress. You're supposed to go bare-armed around town, for these dresses with no sleeves at all are slated to wear under fur coats from now on and under a cloth coat later. After that, they'll be worn, if the designers have their way, without any wrap at all.

For now these dresses are made of wool, which is more apt to be jersey than any other kind. They come, too, in crepes and satins. The idea originated as a dressy style, but now goes into all kind of dresses.

A sleeveless dress from Claire McCardell is sketched. This one is made of blue jersey stitched with red, and in addition to its lack of sleeves, has a style message in the flash of fullness in the skirt front.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—My husband was killed in action about six months ago. I am now receiving monthly insurance payment checks and pension allotment amounting to $106 monthly. We had no children. Recently, I accepted a position in a war plant which pays about $30 weekly. Will my pension check be stopped? S. McD., Somerville.

A—Based on the amount of income you are now receiving, you are not entitled to the pension. The law states if income, with exception of insurance, amounts to more than $1000 annually, you are not eligible for pension.

Q—What is the minimum amount that can be awarded by Veterans Administration for a disability claim? A. C., Quincy.

A—In order to receive a pension check, case must be rated at least 10 per cent, which would amount to $11.50 monthly. Many cases, however, are rated less than 10 per cent and give veterans a service-connected disability status, but no pension allotment.

Q—I have lost my honorable discharge button. Does the Army provide for re-issue? N. S., Norfolk Downs.

A—Yes. Go to Personal Affairs Office, First Service Command, located in Houghton Dutton building, 7 Beacon st., Boston, and you will be given another button.

Q—I am a veteran of World War II and am interested in purchasing a home under provisions of the GI Bill. Will the government allow me to become a co-owner of a house if other co-owner is a non-veteran? S. W., Charlestown.

A—I have talked with the finance department of the Veterans Bureau in Boston and they advise that you file necessary papers with bank you are planning to do business with. Regulations will permit transaction as planned.

Q—I have been informed that I am eligible to apply for mustering-out pay following three years in Navy. Please advise me where to write. J. McE., Wayland.

A—Send discharge and application for mustering-out pay to Bureau of Supply and Accounts, U. S. Navy, Cleveland, O.

Questions submitted to Veterans' Friend Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass., will be answered in this daily column.

U. S. Action Revealed In Yugoslav Mixup

LONDON, Jan. 29 (INS)—The London Daily Mail declared Premier Ivan Subasic and other members of the Yugoslav cabinet will go to Belgrade at the end of this week to join Marshal Tito, "in spite of recent developments including a United States Government note to King Peter and Subasic."

This was the first published mention of direct American intervention in the tangled political situation among opposing Yugoslav elements trying to shape their country's government.

Lt. F. A. Stott

Marine Lt. Frederic A. Stott of Tilton House, Andover, former head coach at Gov. Dummer Academy, South Byfield, has been awarded the Navy Cross for extraordinary heroism during the battle on Saipan, the Marine Corps announced today.

The decoration, which ranks only below the Medal of Honor, was awarded by Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith, in command of the fleet Marine forces in the Pacific.

During the third and fourth days of the fighting, Stott contacted a group of commanders along the front lines when the various units had become intermingled. He jumped from a burning tank after two of his men had been killed, and continued on by foot to coordinate the attack.

The War Today

Mysterious "8 Days" Is War News Puzzle

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

With vast satisfaction this column records that German morale is one of blackest desperation in the face of inevitable disaster.

No wonder, for we are witnessing the death throes of a war machine which a little more than five years ago was the most powerful ever created and the passing of a great power.

The Reich presents a picture of a country in an advanced state of siege.

Civilians are fleeing before the Red forces. There's even an exodus from Berlin itself. Dislocation of public services and shortage of essentials are cuasing much suffering. At long last Hitlerdom is beginning to pay for all the pain it has inflicted on other peoples.

German newspapers go to the extreme of declaring "Panic is sweping the nation from east to west." The press adds that the "next eight days" may decide the war.

No explanation of what is meant by the "next eight days" is offered, but it strikes me that this is clear enough. It refers to Germany's problem of mustering strength for the last stand. Probably not even the Nazis know in this hour of confusion how much they can produce to meet this crisis.

Undoubtedly one factor which enters into the Nazi "eight day" calculation has to do with whether the Red armies can keep up the pace of their cyclonic offensive without pausing for a breather. They already have been going since January 12 at a pace which is one of the marvels of military history, and under normal circumstances they would be expected to slow down for a bit.

If the Russians do slacken up and so give the Nazis a little respite to man their defenses it will draw the battle out some. In any event fierce fighting is still in prospect.

School

my came home for the Christmas holidays and told her he was happy at the school. Headmaster Duncan had taken him and other students to New York, where they sang at a charity affair in the Park Lane Hotel, he related.

Less happy today, however, and brimming over with indignation, was Mrs. Elizabeth Flynn, chairman of the Lenox Board of Health. She declared:

"We found there was no running water at the school, that the toilets were frozen, that there were absolutely no sanitary conveniences functioning. If Mr. Duncan wants to continue his school he will have to do so elsewhere.

"The interest of the board of health was in closing the school for further use. Any other action must come from some other agency."

State police, meanwhile, awaited Duncan's return from New York, to get his side of the story. They were called into the case by Walter Lahart, a member of the board of health, who told them he found the students suffering from cold and hunger, with no food in the refrigerator of the imposing mansion that housed them.

Milk and some provisions were found stacked about the kitchen, but the students, ranging in age from 8 to 22 years old, said they were hungry.

The youngest of the group is 8-year-old Edgeworth Smith, 3d, a social registrite, of East 89th st., New York city.

Wolcott blamed all the trouble of the school on the shortage of coke and other fuel during the below-zero weather, as well as on "snoopers."

"We prepare boys for life here at the Duncan School for Boys," he said. "Our curriculum is good and it is flexible, so much so that one boy 22 years old still is with us."

He added that the fuel shortage had caused fires to be run low for a short period but denied the charge made by police that the students had gone hungry, saying that an electric stove had been still in operation to cook meals.

The school was opened in Lenox last April with three members on the faculty besides Duncan, it was explained by Wolcott. Included among them was Roger Newton. The latter said he taught English and literature.

Further report on conditions at the school was expected from the state building dept., following a report made by Valere S. Liberty of Springfield, a state building inspector.

The 40-room building which housed the 22 students once was the mansion of J. Harris Fahnestock, New York banker and millionaire, and was rented by its present owner, Bene Vergilio of Pittsfield, according to authorities.

Massachusetts students at the school also included George A. Asiok, 20, of North Montello st., Brockton; Leon Reardon, 15, of North Main st., Brockton; William V. Blazer, 11, of Oliver st., Fall River.

When officials made their visit to the school Saturday, they found one student, Donald L. Schley, 13, of Milburn, N. J., hobbling about on a leg that had been been fractured two weeks ago. He was taken to Mercy Hospital in Pittsfield.

Four of the boys are from Massachusetts, others from as far off as London, Venezuela and California.

Cpl. Joseph Keating of the Lee state police barracks, who removed the boys from the school, said all school piping was frozen and there were no sanitary facilities in the 15 bathrooms of the old showplace.

He added that he found milk and a supply of meat in the kitchen but was told by the boys that they had not eaten Saturday until a woman arrived to prepare sandwiches at night.

SINCE ANNOUNCING their unique shopping service in New York, two former North Shore social butterflies, Mrs. Walter Reed (Margie McKean) and Mrs. Edmund Anderson (Gwen Seyburn) have been snowed under with a wide assortment of mail orders from Boston and Detroit friends.

"Believe it or not," Margie exclaimed to one of her friends visiting in New York the other day, "we find we have promised to deliver an old-fashioned pot-bellied stove to one of our clients." But she wasn't able to explain at the moment just where she expected to find such an out-moded relic.

Mrs. Walter Reed

Margie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Shaw McKean of Boston and Prides Crossing. Her partner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weson Seyburn of Detroit who have a beautiful seaside summer home in Manchester. Both girls are wives of servicemen and embarked on their unique venture as a means of keeping busy and entertained. They advertised themselves as "shoppers unlimited" and their service includes shopping for everything from "minks to sinks."

"I wuz thinkin'...."

by Izzy Ort

Wow, fokes, them Reds is hotter than a poker of the same description! For the last week the Super-Race has been exhibiting their extrawrdinary abiluty in the track and field events, mainly running backwards at a sensayshunal rate of speed, jumping over tanks, wrecked planes and any fat Generals who happened to git too close up when the fun began. It's the kind of a show we all like, but, of corse, we're all waitin' fer that last act when Eisenhower and Stalin meet in Berlin after tramplin' over miles of dead Nazis, which you all kno is the only kind that's wurth tramplin' on. So keep on buyin' bonds, put in that full week at that defense plant, give more blood to the Red Cross, and carry on with every thing yer doin' to help bring the whole thing to a quick end! . . . Yers trooly is really bein' the gracious host these days. Got so many friends from New York visitin' me, in me nine room house that I'm bunkin' over at me neighbor's! . . . On the serious side, though, I've been so doggone busy between bond drives, home front activities, and me place of business dat me nerves are all shot. Think I'll run up to Pratt Diagnostic fer a few days of rest and a checkup. Visit me Grille & El Tropico, Essex St. Advt.

Armistice! Old Pattern For Temporary Peace!

By AUSTEN LAKE

NONE KNOWS WHEN OR HOW this war will end. But I can tell you how that other one ended 26 years ago when the big guns quit along the Western Front. The sputter of rifles and machine guns died away. Men came out of their holes and an aching calm reigned along the lines.

Austen Lake

I remember the brightness of the old day, how the Vosges hill tumbled toward the horizon of the Haute Marne. There was a smell of wood smoke and sour stable odors. A faraway crow of a rooster came like the thin wail of conscience. And there was the crisp, early morning tramp of a fatigue detail, marching chu-chu-chu along the dirt street of the little billet town behind the lines.

A bugle sounded its brass summons with staccato notes signifying double-quick—"ta-ta, ta-ta," on the end. Soldiers slipped into overcoats and spilled from cowpens, haylofts and horse barns, questions in their eyes and unshaven stubble on their chins. Officers came strapping on Sam Brown belts and chewing last mouthfuls of breakfast. And finally the long, double ranks in company front stood suspiciously before battalion HQ where the road made an angular elbow and houses leaned against each other on an upgrade.

Major Shiners, a man with a limp and a crooked leer along the right side of his mouth where a German sniper had nicked the nerves of his cheek, came out, flicked away a cigaret and scratched an itch between the buttons of his blouse. 'Tenshun! The ranks stiffened while he read from a document with lips that moved only on the left side of his mouth, giving his expression a contemptuous sneer.

"Whereas, of this date, an Armistice has been signed . . ."

Where Scarlet Poppies Grow . . .

ARMISTICE! A BRIEF WHOOP rose from the end of the ranks where recently arrived recruits called themselves the "Hell bats." But the veterans merely lofted cynical eyebrows, wiped moist noses and twitched their skins where the cooties bit thickest.

The Major creased the dispatch with fingers yellowed by nicotine and seemed fumbling in his mind for something appropriate to say. But he simply grunted "Dis-miss!" and limped toward his office without taking the Top Kick's salute or waiting to hear the echoed "Dis-miss!"

The mustard-colored lines broke, the men easing the buttons at their throats and fumbled for their tobacco. There were no cheers as they wandered away, brooding on the news and saying little. A French farmer, in wooden shoes and stained smock, brought out an eldering horse and led him to water at the town trough. A middle-aged peasant woman stood framed in her doorway, a stricken look in her eyes and a small child clutching at her skirts.

"C'est fini, la guerre?", she asked as Corporal Tommy Murphy went past.

"Wee, toot feenish," said Tommy, making a slicing motion across his throat, "Caput!"

The woman went inside, drawing the child's fingers away from her skirts and closing the door. Armistice meant nothing to her, whose son and husband lay somewhere on the Somme. A Pennsylvania Dutch private named Sellers shuffled off. His twin was in a base hospital at Beaune, blinded and with one lung gone from phosgene gas. That granary at the angle of the street marked the billet where Ed Clipper had once blown blue notes into his harmonica in the candle light concerts before dysentary gave him a pine box draped with a cotton flag for his last couch.

A red-headed sergeant named Sam Guggemus, who had been a hobo in civil life, trudged off to fill his canteen with cognac—the man who had hawled Joe Broadfoot from his shell-shattered tank and helped the mortal gaps in his stomach where Chuax-chaux bullets had ripped his intestines.

These Were Yesteryear's Sons . . .

ARMISTICE! THE VILLAGE MAYOR, an aged patriarch with a beard stained brown by tobacco droolings, came out of his cottage in an antique frock coat and a tri-colored sash over his shoulder. His watery eyes streamed with emotion as he quavered an official speech to anybody who would listen. Papa Savonard's two sons, Felix and Rene, were gone too and the stone mantel over his hearth held a framed certificate lettered in gilt which began, "Mort glorieux, pour la Patrie."

Yes, gloriously dead for their country. But the baycocks behind the house, the grapevines and the henyards would see Felix and Rene no more. The old man's voice cackled on about "Nos braves amies, Les Americains . . ." and "Le jour de gloire est arrive . . ." in a hysterical jibberish while his elderly dame hid weeping behind the parlor curtains.

Armistice! For the living! The terraced church yard where reeling walls buttressed the tilted slopes was bright with bead and weather-proof rosettes. Stiff military crosses stood between leaning headstones and inside, as you first entered the iron gate, a wooden cross read, "Andre Moullet, Cpl. Ire Cie, 107 rgt Art'y. A wreath of rubber ivy stood on a frame and frost had cracked off the letter "X" in the word "Paix" which lettered the grave and some macabre American wag had added a "d" and pencilled in the words "in full." Yes, paid in full!

The boys had settled down grimly to the business of getting drunk as the afternoon wore on and the officers tactfully stayed indoors or looked the other way. The guard house was emptied by order of Col. George Patton. Armistice! Twenty-six years ago candle light filled the French town's windows. A clatter of crockery and alcoholic boisterousness rose from Mme. Aubryn's tavern.

That night a cold wind came from the north, stripping off the last of summer's leaves and rushing on with the whispered protest of unseen voices. And above all rose the solemn boom of the town's church bells as the parish cure tolled the carillon which had been mute for four years. Armistice! Temporary peace! A lull in mass murder! What will the ? aryest be this time?

500 in Silver Skates

Odds and ends in the mails, coming through even this morning but tsill bearing the Friday night deadline postmark, guarantee a field of close to 500 contestants in the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Silver Skates Derby to be held at the Boston Garden next Sunday afternoon.

And while the Derby directors are awaiting the final few stragglers, they've been lining up a most attractive program of entertainment to fill out the card.

There's no doubt they scored a 10-strike when they signed the loveliest of ice ballerinas in Eleanor O'Meara and then duplicated their efforts in securing Miss Jane Weiss of the Commonwealth Skating Club for the top amateur talent in New England. Miss Weiss will be bringing other members of her club with her, including Kay Lindstrom, Rosemary Clement, Marion Murphy, Elizabeth Conway and Justine Smith. All have appeared in carnivals at Lake Placid.

★ ★ ★

Miss O'Meara was a former member of the Ice Capades cast and her lovely "Blue Danube" spectacle will be well remembered by fans who saw her with that show last year. She has been tabbed by experts as the most graceful and natural ballerina ever seen. Before joining the Ice Capades, Miss O'Meara had captured an endless list of amateur titles in Canada and the U. S.

Latest entries have been received from:

Bruins Get Chance For Playoff Berth

By BILL GRIMES

From Manager Art Ross right on down through the entire squad, the Bruins are satisfied that they bite off more than they can chew when they tackle Dick Irvin's Canucks. They have been on he short end of eight encounters with Les Canadiens this season. They were swamped in Montreal on Saturday and went down to a 4 to 1 defeat last night before a jam-packed house of 13,500.

The Rossmen have 18 more games to play and they are very thankful that they will not oppose the Flying Frenchmen again until March 8. And, by the time that the Canucks return here, which will be the last night of the regular season, the Bruins either will be in or out of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

With only two games remaining to be played against the world's champions and three (two at home) with the Red Wings, who have beaten them seven times, the Bruins should have smoother sailing for most of the rest of the campaign.

The Rossmen have won their 23 points from Toronto, Chicago and Rangers. And, they have 13 games to play against those clubs, five with the Blackhawks and four with the Maple Leafs and Blue Shirts.

Starting with Chicago tomorrow night, the Bruins play six home games in two weeks. They'll make a flying trip to Toronto for a Saturday night engagement with the Maple Leafs and race home to take on the Rangers the following night.

They must win at least four games during this home stay, if they are going to make the playoffs.

Mgr. Art Ross realizes that his club is too young and inexperienced to cope successfully against such veteran aggregations as Montreal and Detroit. But, it's a different story when they are matched against the Maple Leafs, Blackhawks and Rangers. They have a two-game edge over Toronto in six tests, have beaten Chicago four out of five and have taken the Rangers into camp three times at the Garden but the best they have to show for three appearances in New York is a draw.

Due to the fact that Toronto beat Rangers twice over the week-end, the Bruins didn't lose any ground. They're still in fourth place by a margin of one game and should pick up two more points tomorrow night.

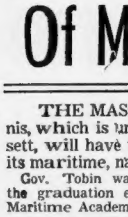
Gov. Tobin Backs Efforts Of Maritime Academy

By JACK CONWAY

THE MASSACHUSETTS Maritime Academy at Hyannis, which is under the supervision of Capt. Claude O. Bassett, will have the full support of Gov. Maurice J. Tobin in its maritime, naval and athletic programs.

Gov. Tobin was a speaker at the graduation exercises at the Maritime Academy which saw 80 Massachusetts young men receive their diplomas and prepare to become officers in the maritime service and in the Navy.



Gov. Tobin

Gov. Tobin stressed the importance of the Maritime service in the life of America. He is eager to see American ships on all of the seas of the world in the postwar period, and he asserted that this will call for government subsidies.

There is a new armory planned for the Martime Academy which will give adequate facilities for drilling and also for indoor athletics. During the fall and winter the Maritime Academy has been represented by a basketball team which has made creditable showings against rival school and service teams.

★ ★ ★

Standout Eleven

LAST FALL Maritime Academy was represented by a football team that defeated Exeter and which was only beaten by the crack New London submarine base team by a score of 13 to 0.

"I have always recognized the importance of athletics in the life of the American boy," Gov. Tobin told this writer during a chat at the Northampton Fair last fall. "When I lived in Roxbury, I was one of the admirers of Eddie Shevlin, a fine boxer, who is now a captain in the Army. I was vitally interested in football and in baseball."

Gov. Tobin has always been an ardent Boston College rooter, while you will always find him in the stands when Notre Dame battles Army in New York.

It was due to the efforts of Gov. Tobin when mayor of Boston that English High and Boston Latin were able to play their Thanksgiving Day football game in the Harvard Stadium.

A Governor with so much love for athletics, and with such a fine appreciation of what athletics mean to the youth of America, is certain to give Capt. Bassett and the other officers of the Maritime Academy at Hyannis every possible aid in their efforts to develop maritime and naval officers. Athletics will have a fitting place in this program.

Among the maritime schools, the Hyannis Academy holds the same top rating that Annapolis does in its field.

Supplies to Russia

IT HAS been emphasized repeatedly by high ranking maritime and naval officers that the great successes scored by the Russians in the war have been partly due to the American supplies that were sent to Russia in our ships. Many of the officers who directed these ships were graduates of the Maritime Academy.

In the early days of the war, many American ships were lost taking supplies to Russia. There were also heavy casualties. Despite these losses, the Maritime service carried on, and, with the aid of the Navy, got the supplies through to Russia that were so necessary for victory.

The Maritime service has also carried war supplies to every other battle front, and in the recent invasion of Luzon ships of the Maritime service were used to carry troops of Gen. MacArthur.

Gov. Tobin has a background as an educator as a former member of the Boston School Committee, and as a result he will be able to lend valuable aid to the Maritime Academy in its scholastic program.

Random Shots at Target

WHEN baseball club owners meet in New York the latter part of the week their decision on whether they will try to carry through in 1945 will be "yes" . . . Eddie Collins of the Red Sox and Bob Quinn of the Braves have a strong ally for the continuation of baseball in Col. Larry MacPhail, who is part of a syndicate that has just purchased the Yanks for $2,800,000.

Floyd Bell, one of the best public relations counsels in the country, is doing the publicity for Sheldon Fairbanks' Sportsmen's Show that will open in Mechanics building on Saturday . . . This show will retain all of the features which have made it so attractive to the New England public.

M'Phail to Tell Plans for Yanks

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (AP)—Executives of the New York Yankees will learn just what the new boss has in mind Wednesday when Ed Barrow, farm system leader George Weiss and possibly Manager Joe McCarthy will meet Col. Larry MacPhail "officially" for the first time.

The new president and general manager of the Bronx Bombers is on record as planning no changes in the personnel of the organization and says he will continue to operate the farm system "as is" but his background indicates several policy changes may be expected.

In almost 25 years operation under Barrow the Yanks stood soundly upon baseball itself as the only important factor in drawing fans while MacPhail at Cincinnati and Brooklyn went in heavily for circus frills and hippodrome effects in addition to high-priced player talent.

Not that MacPhail overlooked the quality of his players as the most decisive factor at the gate (he spent over a million dollars bringing a flag to Flatbush) but he also promoted such sidelights as organ concerts, beauty contests, running races and free autos to lucky ticket holders.

Old Rice Rival In BAA 2-Mile

First entry for the Billings two miles, one of four traditional trophies runs in the Boston A. A. meet, is that of Forrest Efaw, Bainbridge Naval. He is the same Forrest Efaw who, running out of Oklahoma A. and M. for four years, persistently dogged the footsteps of the great Greg Rice at this distance.

Rice himself has always claimed that the slim Oklahoman would some day cash in on his extraordinary ability. Efaw snared national championships in the arduous steeplechase event, but has not yet made Rice's prediction come true at two miles. This may be his year. He is in excellent condition, and no longer has to face the long train treks each week from Oklahoma to the East.

Efaw is the present A. A. U. 3000-meters steeplechase champion, a title for which he has been putting up an annual fight for eight seasons. He first won it in 1939, again in 1941 and last year. In addition, he has been runner-up for that crown no less than five times.

The sandy-haired southwesterner has never copped a major two-mile run on boards. He has been third and second to Rice in his last two Boston A. A. appearances—but probably will be the man to beat at the Garden on Feb. 10.

Busy Week for Schoolboys

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Basketball and track will continue to edge into the schoolboy sports spotlight this week with another triple-header court session scheduled for the Boston Garden Wednesday afternoon, armory leg-men in action four days and the N.E.A.A.A.U. meet at the Marshall gymnasium Saturday afternoon.

As usual there'll be the four hockey league meetings next Saturday with the Boston boys having their fling at the Garden ice Thursday and Friday afternoons.

Basketball above the North Station depot will find last week's twin victors in the in-town school ranks, Public Latin and South Boston, opening up the session against B. C. High and Boston English respectively. The third contest will find Medford and Everett of the Greater Boston League tangling.

Entries in the N. E. track meet at Malden have closed with a great portion of the competitors from the Northeastern affair in the field. There'll be five events, particularly for schoolboys, the 30-yard dash; 40-yard low hurdles; 300-yard run; 600-yard run and the 1000-yard run. Six open events will complete the Malden program.

And to pep up the meet, Portsmouth High School will be sending at least three leg-artists. The New Hampshire entries will include Ed Bowden in the dash; Bob Blanchette in the dash and hurdles and Robert Reise in the hurdles and the 1000. Mt. Pleasant High of R. I. will be sending Tony Guina into the open running high jump.

Schoolboy hockey at the Garden Thursday afternoon will pit Roxbury Memorial vs. Boston Tech; Boston Trade vs. Dorchester and Public Latin vs. Commerce. Friday, the district school conference will pair Charlestown and Jamaica Plain; South Boston and Hyde Park; Brighton Vocational and Roslindale; Brighton and East Boston.

The Saturday hockey players will continue their same program. The Greater Boston circuit will play the first of its series of 'pay-off' games at the Garden Saturday afternoon; the Bay State League will continue its re-plays at the Arena in the afternoon with the Eastern Mass. taking over at night and the Catholic loop keeping up its pace at the Skating Club.

Invitations are in the mails for the All-Scholastic banquet for next Monday night at the Hotel Lenox . . . sweaters and gold engraved football charms will be presented to the Board of Coaches team of the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Board of Coaches . . . the program, with guest speakers, will wind up by 9:30 to give the kids plenty of time to get home at a reasonable hour.

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

Maurice "Rocket" Richard, the Canuck's right-winger, has scored 36 goals in 33 games, equalling the combined contributions of Elmer Lach (15) and "Toe" Blake (21). With 17 games to play, "The Rocket" should live up to Coach Dick Irvin's predictions of 50 goals. He popped in two tallies last night and was robbed of about three more by Paul Bibeault.

Coach "Dit" Clapper who didn't play in either of the games with Les Canadiens over the week-end will be back at his post tomorrow night when the Bruins take on the Chicago Blackhawks. Clapper was forced out of the Detroit game last Tuesday after two periods and while he was on the inactive list, the Bruins were nicked for a total of 18 goals.

Elmer Lach is still the leading scorer in the N.H.L. with 51 points, one up on Richard, with Capt. Bill Cowley and Blake tied for third place with 50 points.

There was so much hooking and holding last night on the part of players on both clubs that the game was one of the most uninteresting played at the Garden this season. Referee Gravel handed out seven penalties, but he could have filled the bastille.

Late in the second period and early in the final chapter, ceiling lights exploded and showered the ice, and also Les Canadiens' bench with glass. Frankie Mario and Lach were cut.

Lt. Herbie Gallagher, one of the best all-around athletes ever turned out of Northeastern, watched the game from the press box.

At the start of the game, it looked very much as though the Bruins were out to get Lach. The Canucks' classy center ice man was tossed around plenty, but none of the Rossmen could get him to take the count.

Judging from the various types of holds he put on the Frenchmen last night, Jack Shewchuk must be a regular attendant at Paul Bowser's wrestling shows.

The Bruins flew home from Montreal in one hour and forty-eight minutes. They didn't go that fast at anytime against the Canucks.

Referee George Gravel, who streaks all over the ice, skated smack into Gino Rozzini in the first period and the little Bruin took a nasty spill.

But for the Brookline Fire Dept., Herbie Cain would have been A. W. O. L. last night. Late in the afternoon, Cain locked himself in his bathroom and couldn't get out. The Wealthy Town fire eaters finally freed him.

The Olympics and the Rovers will play for the Infantile Paralysis Fund on Friday night at the Garden. The entire receipts will be donated to that worthy cause.

The Flying Frenchmen have now won eight straight and should not look for any serious trouble until they meet the Maple Leafs in Toronto two weeks from Saturday.

And, speaking of the Maple Leafs, Frank "Finn" McCool shut out the Rangers again last night. He blanked the Blue Shirts Saturday night in Toronto, for his third shutout of the season and he has held Chicago and Canadiens scoreless.

Capt. Bill Cowley robbed Bill Durnan of a shutout with only 34 seconds to go. Although he is head and shoulders over any goal minder in the league, Durnan hasn't turned in a scoreless game this season.

Hall of Fame Misses

By HUGGH FULLERTON, JR.

No one was elected to baseball's Hall of Fame on the latest ballot and that looks as if the machinery had slipped a cog when Frank Chance, the "peerless leader," falls seven votes shorts; when Clark Griffith, a great pitcher and manager before he became a club owner, musters only 108 ballots and when "Iron Man" McGinnity and "Home Run" Baker, whose nicknames will live on in baseball, draw fewer than 50 votes, the reason must be ignorance or forgetfulness.

They are "modern" players, but few modern writers ever saw them play. So what chance have the stars of the 80's and 90's and even before who haven't yet been honored with places in the Cooperstown museum?

There's a special committee to vote on them, but certainly nobody's memory of their feats is getting any fresher.

Before it's too late, how about getting men who saw those real old-timers in action to submit their ideas on who were the outstanding stars of each decade or five-year period?

They could say whether such men as Tommy Bond and Billy Nash, stars back in baseball's dark ages; Mike "King" Kelly and John Clarkson, a great battery in the 80's and the first players ever sold for as much as $10,000; Tim Keefe, Big Bill Lange, Fred Tenney, Hugh Duffy and others of their times deserve places in the hall beside Alexander Cartwright, A. G. Spalding, "Old Hoss" Radbourne and the few other early-day players who have been named.

Their part of baseball history has been written; with such sage advice, the committee could make a final selection of those whose part in the writing should be kept alive.
